Has Mr. Boutwell Feen Guilty of a Violation of Law?

His Present Dilemma - Which

The Law and Facts of the Case Clearly Stated.

WASHINGTON, August 26, 1871, The information relating to the new loan given out at the Treasury Department to representatives of the press for publication is always clothed with so much ambiguity that the real truth cannot be obtained without a vast deal of labor. Messrs. mous subscriptions by the "Syndicate" to the new loan. Cooke, Boutwell & Co.'s bulletins announce enorpewspaper that undertook to expose and probe the inside operations of the stock-jobbing rings in Wall street. A long time afterwards the Treasury ring at Washington received the same treatment immeduately upon its first organization; and now the SYNDICATE comes forward for its share. There is a desire on the part of the taxpayers to know if the Syndicate actually purchase the bonds or only take them, as agents, to dispose of on commission. It is asked if this Syndicate business is only another scheme to make money out of manipulating the debt over again at the expense of the people, or a tona fide sale of a portion of the new lean. And, if the Byndicate are only agents, is it going to cost more to place the new toan than will be saved in the next three years by the proposed reduction of interest? Is the present burden of taxation to be reduced or increased by all these great anancial operations so loudly sounded throughout the length and breadth of the laud? Is it true, as was given out on the 18th instant for publication, that "Governor H. D. Cooke paid into the Treasury to-day, on behalf of the European Syndicate, fifteen millions subscription count of the new loan," or did he only hand in acertificate of deposit for the amount by the First National Bank of Washington, of which he is Presitemporarily increase the bonded debt of the nation seventy-five million deliars by issuing that amount of the new bonds to the Syndicates in exchange for national bank certificates of deposit, and then reduce the debt to the proper standard one, two or three months afterwards, by calling in the same amount of old bonds, such intention would have been expressed in law.

three months afterwards, by calling in the same amount of old bonds, such intention would have neen expressed in law.

As it now stands the law is imperative. Language cannot be found to make it more explicit. It does not permit the Secretary to herease the bonded debt for one day, one hour or one minute even. When the Secretary exchanged, as he did some days since, ten million dollars of five per cent bonds for ten million dollars of five per cent bonds for ten million dollars of five per cent bonds for ten million dollars of national bank certificates of deposit, he increased for the time being—for so long as the certificates remain outstanding—our bonded debt and interest burden, contrary to the plain and imperative law of Congress, which declares that nothing in the funding bill or any other law then in force shall be construed to anthon 2a any increase whatever of the bonded debt of the United States.

Se retary Bontwell has evidently overlooked thus provision of law; or perhaps he only intends to violate it for "intery days," and then right things by making a reduction that shall equal the previous increase. This temporary violation will never answer.

In his speech advocating the impeachment of President Johnsen Mr. Representative Boutwell said (in reply to a member who thought it not worthwhile to go on with impeachment, as the Presidential term of office would shortly expire anyway) that if the President's term of office should be shortened but by a single day by impeachment he should nevertheless be impeached.

Now, it may be said that if Secretary Boutwell has been guilty of a single day, as he certainly has been, he ought to be impeached. At all events, there is a fine chance for a Congressional investigation.

FAT FUN.

Accumulated Avendupois in the Nutmer State-The National Association of Fat Men and the Fourth Annual Clambake.

NORWALK, Conn., August 25, 1871. The fourth annual clambake of the National Fat Meu's Association came off yesterday at Gregory's Point, and was in all respects a grand and imposing affair. Extensive preparations had been made for a grand time, and invitations had been sent all over the country to the "heavy weights" to be on hand. A large number responded to the call, but the threat. ening aspect of the weather at early morning deterred many from coming. As the day advanced the clouds lifted, a fine breeze sprung up, a recent shower had laid the dust, and a day of more than ordinary loveliness repaid those who were present. All the morning trains came loaded with the Goliahs, and at one o'clock it was thought the Point would not hold them. Any uneasiness on that score was quieted, however, by the oder of cooking clams, over a hundred bushels of which were put in oake, to say nothing of the oysters, fish, sweet potatoes, corn, &c. humor prevailed, and when at half-past two o'clock dinner was announced, a rush was made that caused the old Point to shake for very dread of what might follow. Three hours were occupied in de-

SUNDAY, August 27, 1871, I The general trade of the city begins to show consklerable animation, and the merchants anticipate a large business this fall. The greater steadiness in the gold premium, which has varied less this year than in any year since 1861, has encouraged confidence in all directions, and many enterprise have been undertaken which had been waiting for this condition. has again much in the way of interesting incidents but so far there has been little improvement upon the business of the summer season. The success of of activity, and the larger holders of stocks en-deavored to start the market into life, but met with istle response from the outside public. Very natu rally, there has been an advance in prices on the Stock Exchange, but it was slow in its movement and did not attend any improvement in the volume of business. The dividend-paying stocks have reeffect on investments produced by the success of the government in borrowing $200,000,000 at five per cent, but the current prices being regarded in most instances as already affected by this influence, the prospect of which was foreseen last winter when the funding question was so extensively agitated capital has shown a cautiousness and indisposition which have so far prevented a free investment in stocks. In fact, the general situation of the market is so well known, and human nature being always suspicions of buying when sellers are so plenty, transactions are limited. The leading stocks are understood to be neld by large combinations who are only looking for a market, and the eliques controlling them are therefore left in their undisputed possession. The accumulation of stocks in this city has perhaps never been so great. The enormous loans of the banks-upwards of $305,000,000-are an indication of this fact. The higher prices ruling last spring brought all the "country" stock into this city, and it is said that the nightly deposits of stocks, bonds and other securities in the vanits of the Stock Exchange represent a market value of about $500,000,000.

The money market has been firmer, but irregular. On one or two days during the week lenders on call capital has been so little affected as yet by the outward movement of currency, and was in fact so materially assisted by the coin disbursements of the Treasury during the week, that the banks, despite their immense expansion, felt at liberty to enlarge their accommodation, and toward the close money drifted back to the stereotyped figures of the sum-

The gold market compressed all its features of interest into the two days at the beginning of the week, when the controlling cliques so far pressed their advantage that they compelled borrowers to pay as high as one per cent a day for the use of gold in daily deliveries, but at the same time gave force to the clamor of the mercantlie community. whose solicitations induced Secretary Boutwell to change the time of his gold sale and furnish the market with a supply from the Treasury. His interierence was taken to be a threat that he would exert his powers to a jurther extent if necessary to break the "corner," and the cliques, taking the hint, quietly withdrew their antagonism and left the market to follow its own bent. The extremes of the price were 112% and 1124-the chaues having been content seemingly with exacting high rates for the use of their gold, selling it only when the "shorts" took the alternati e of buying in their gold in preference to continuing borrowing.

The success of the new loan singularly enough reason that with the power of redemption conferred by the com subscriptions to the new five per cents a limit of par in gold was fixed as the highest price for the older five-twenties. There were also doubt less a great many sales for account of banks and other moneyed institutions who had been holding for the older five-twenties. There were also doubles as all other moneyed institutions who had been holding the bonds in lieu of better investment during the pletors of money and low states of interest, but were desirous of withdrawing in time to meet the better demand for money anticipated in the fail.

The weekly statement of the associated banks is faworable, but without important feature. The disbursements of the Treasury Department by sale of gold and in payment of the September interest have been sufficient to offset the payments for customs, and the specie items show a considerable increase, in deposits, a favorable, but without important feature. The disbursements of the Treasury Department by sale of gold and in payment of the September interest have been sufficient to offset the payments for customs, and the specie items show a considerable increase, The gradual movement of currency to the micror so usual at this season is reducted in a further loss in legal tenders. The increase in deposits is just about equal to the increase in specie, and the loss in greenback to the increase in losses, so that the statement compares with its predecessor as follows:

SCIENTIFIC NOTES.

The depot of artiflery at Berlin has just sent a Potedam, Erfurt, Neiss, Engers, Hanover, Cassel and Ankiam, to serve for the instruction of the pupils,
M. Damour, says the London Athenœum, has dis-name of Jacobshe, at Jacobsberg, in Sweden. It is very hard and cuts glass, is black in color and has a specific gravity of 4.75.

In the first six months of the present year the in-covered a new Spinell, to which he has given the crease in the population of Serim amounted to 50,000 persons. In the course of the year 1870 only 220 persons emigrated from Berlin to America or Australia. The Nuova Patria, of Naples, states that some in-teresting documents relative to Masantello have just been discovered in the archives of the municipainty.

A temperature of seventy degrees and upwards is again reported, on the 14th inst., at several British stations. In London, at eight o'clock, the thermometer was seventy-three. During the afternoon of the 18th the temperature in London reached eighty-seven degrees in the shade.

The statement was printed, says, the London eighty-seven degrees in the shade.

The statement we printed, says the London Builder, as to the consideration shown for St. Alban's Abbey by English sovereigns at different times may not have been without its effect. The restoration committee have received an infimation that "Her Majesty is pleased to consent to patronize the undertaing for the restoration of St. Alban's Abbey, in consideration of the great historical and religious interest which is attached to it."

Experiments were lately made with Harvey's sea torpedo by the Dutch government at Nieuwdiep. A sloop of war was anchored in Texel Roads the torpedoes were towed into contact by the ram Burrel, of 2,500 tons, 400 horse power, twits screws. Further experiments were intended to be made with the Scorpion, a vessel of the same class, against the Eurie underweigh, but it was not considered advisable to run the risk of two such powerful rams ranning into each other by accident at the speed which would be required. The committee will make their report to the Minister of Navine on the trials they have witnessed, the Minister will then decide whether it is suitable for the navy of Holland.
